Making A Stand Against Islam

On today's broadcast we had Dr. Bill Warner. He is the founder of Political Islam, and the author of important books on the subject of Islam. He was a college physics professor, and about 45 years ago he started looking into Islam. He started by looking at religious mysticism.

For about a year, he went to lectures by Sufi Masters, who are mystical Muslims. There was some attraction, but the more I studied about it, I saw Sufism as a great marble castle with a locked door to the basement. There was a bad smell coming from that basement, but you couldn't open the door to see what was causing it. The idea of jihad, sacred violence, was around the edges of it, but they wouldn't talk about it. He left that and didn't think anymore about it.

He had many Muslim students, and there was a subtle difference between them and himself. It had nothing to do with their being from across the ocean because they were Nigerian Christians in the college, and he did not feel any separation between them.

If you want to understand anything, you have to start by studying the basics, the fundamentals, so he decided to read the Qur'an from cover to cover. When he finished, he saw that there was a big problem. From there he read the life of Muhammad. This is where he first started to understand that this is a very serious piece of political business.

When 9/11 happened his phone began to ring, and people were saying that he had said that something was going to happen and asking how he knew. He had read the play book, the Muslim scriptures. When Osama Bin Laden issued his tape calling America to Islam he knew we had a problem because Muhammad always called his victims to Islam before he attacked them.

On 9/12 he realized that he was involved in a civilizational war. The people around him didn't know the difference between a Sikh, a Buddhist, a Hindu, or anything. This is when he decided that he needed to educate.

A civilizational war is a war between different civilizations. Becoming a Muslim doesn't mean that you just go to a different church on a different corner and a different day. The religion of Islam is of no interest at all. I define the religion of Islam as those things you do and don't do to gain access to Paradise and avoid Hell. Religion is about what happens after death. What we need to be concerned about is what happens in this life.

The biggest misunderstanding people have about Islam, is that they think it is a religion. It is a complete civilization. It tells you how to drink a glass of water, what food to eat, what to wear, how to have sex, what is a family, what is a father, what is a husband. These things have an impact on us. For example, more and more British are polygamists because Muslims are invoking their right to have multiple wives. We should be concerned about what Islam does to us, not what it does to Muslims.

The only people who claim that Islam is a religion are non-Muslims. Muslims will tell you that Islam is a complete way of life, and I call that a civilization.

Sharia even tells you how to go to the bathroom. It tells you which direction to defecate, and which foot enters the bathroom first. Islam is a totalitarian ideology. The leaders have total control and power over your life. It dictates every aspect of your life and how you live. Freedom is a foreign concept in Islam. If America could really understand what Islam is all about, they would say, "We want no part of this." We don't oppose Islam because it is a different religion, but because of its political intent.

Islam divides the world into two kinds of people, believers and non-believers, which are called the kafir. I don't want the kafir to suffer under Islam, I don't want to deal with halal food or how to teach history. In Tennessee, the 7th grad textbooks teach that the golden days of Islam were the peak of civilization. It says that Islam was the first to give women their rights and that Islam is a religion of peace.

When we think of war, we think of bullets and bombs. This is a war of propaganda. It is a war of indoctrination, and they are starting with our children. The Muslim Student Association (MSA), a branch of the Muslim Brotherhood here in America, which is on the campus of nearly every state college in America. It is now working its way into our high schools. They are influencing our textbooks as we have already seen.

Dr. Warner's website is a great source of information on Islam. His course, Foundations of Islam, is a great source for those who want to understand Islam, and how to reach Muslims for Christ. I recommend it to missionaries who will be going to areas with significant Muslim populations.

Dr. Warner's book, Sharia for Non-Muslims, is the number one seller on Amazon about Sharia Law. This book is essential if you want to understand what Islam and Sharia is all about. It exposes them for what they really are.

Dr. Warner's books are very small. They are not written to impress you with his intellect, they are written to educate. His desire is to make it easy to understand what Islam is all about.

Sharia for Non-Muslims has been translated into 16 languages, and is the number one seller on Islam in Poland. In Europe, they have realized that this is a war of ideas, and they need better ideas to combat it. We need this same understanding in America. Fortress of Faith is dedicated to educating people on Islam. It is also dedicated to getting people to take action. We often invite people to join us at the corner of truth and courage. Knowing the truth is not enough. We must also have the courage to stand for truth in a very real way. Sadly there are many who see the truth, and just shake their heads saying, "why doesn't someone do something about this." They just go about their lives trying to ignore the problem.

Would you consider supporting this ministry on a monthly basis?

You can do so by going to our donation page.

One of the problems here in America is that those who understand, those who come to our meetings, are over 50 years old. The younger generations don't seem to be paying attention to what is going on. In central Europe, those who attend the meetings are mostly under 35. Those in central Europe remember the totalitarian system of the Soviet Union. They know tyranny, it is not an abstract concept to them. They view Islam as worse than Communism. That call it Communism with a god.

In America, we have another memory. Our memory is that we always win. It may be a struggle, but we will win in the end. Americans don't think that anything can harm America. We may have a bad President, but the next one will be fine. In Europe, they see this could be the end of our civilization. It could well be if we don't stop it now. The reason those who come to our meetings in America are of the older generations is because they know of the tyranny of WWI and WWII.

The difference between the enemy of yesterday and the enemy of today is that their tactics have changed. The enemy of yesterday fought with guns. When they try to kick down the door, we shoot back, and we are good at it. The enemy of today sees our vulnerability and our stupidity because we think that it is OK to let an anti-American ideology come into our country, and to be propagated in our schools thinking that all ideologies are equal.

The Muslim Brotherhood is, in my opinion, the most dangerous terrorist organization of the face of the earth. They are infiltrating our nation through covert methods. They are sowing their seeds of sedition, and we are allowing them to do so.

There are four kinds of jihad found in the Qur'an. There is the jihad of the sword, which is the only way we think of jihad. We think of ISIS and its type of jihad. ISIS is not a real danger to us, nor is the jihad of the sword. I don't want to minimize the suffering of those who are affected by jihad, like those on 9/11. We lose that many people to corner shootings every year. How many people die in car crashes every year?

My point is, those numbers, as painful as they are, will not take us down as a nation. Believing that one set of laws is as good as another will take us down as a nation. Thinking that if they want Sharia, it is fine. If they want polygamy, fine. If they want to beat their wives, fine.

There is also the jihad of the pen, the jihad of the mouth, and the jihad of money. An example of the jihad of money is when the Saudis gave money to the Clinton Foundation. They filed it under that category of the Zakat, a charity tax. It was given to strengthen the hearts of those who are weak about Islam. In other words, it was a bribe for Hillary. This money was given under one of the five pillars of Islam. The $25 million will do more to harm our nation than the murder committed over the weekend by some jihadist. The head of the Muslim Brotherhood chapter in her college was Huma Abedine, Hillary Clinton's chief adviser.

It is an unusual thing, but the last couple of weeks the press has been putting out information on Huma Abedine's with a jihadist magazine. This information has been out there for years, but the press is just now starting to report on it. The question is, what will America and Americans do about it. Most likely, nothing at all.

What are we doing right?

After 9/11, there were three sets of people making comments on the articles concerning Islam and jihad. There were the leftists who were saying all religions are bad, there were the Muslims who were saying that Islam is a religion of peace, there were those called bigots and islamophobes who knew what they were talking about. Now there are only people like us leaving comments. We are winning on the comments on the Internet. This is so much so that some articles will no longer accept comments because they know what will happen. We are winning at the grass roots level.

Sadly, we are losing at the very top. It seems that the higher you go, the less they know. If a man is a sergeant in the Marines, he probably knows a lot about Islam, but if he is a colonel, he probably doesn't know anything about Islam. The grass roots are being educated.

We have talked about how the Obama administration has removed everything linking terrorism and Islam from the security training manuals. Our security people are not allowed to look at Islam as a motive for committing jihad. One general who had been the head of Defense Intelligence was relieved from his command because he used the word jihadi instead of terrorist.

The left and the politically correct know what they are doing when they make us shape the language their way. When you take away the right words, you can't have the right thoughts. When you control the use of words, you then control thought.

Our military and our law enforcement are not allowed to use the right words. Jihadist is very different from the word terrorist. Terrorism is a technique, jihad goes to motive. We need to understand why people are doing things. We fought the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan, and we never asked, who is the enemy and what is their war doctrine.

We may be very nice people, but we are driving blind. We sure wouldn't want to offend anyone by telling the truth.

We think of politicians as kind of sleazy people. Ministers are supposed to be moral leaders. In Dr. Warner's home state, Tennessee, it seems that the politicians have a better moral compass than the preachers. There is resistance in the legislature against Sharia Law. Many states have tried to put some kind of limitation of Shara law in American courts.

Dr. Warner entered a resolution into the Tennessee legislature concerning the Christians who are suffering at the hand of Islam. He could easily get legislators to vote for this, but he can't get ministers to go to the legislature to support the resolution. In spite of this, the resolution did pass.

It is good that are politicians be moral leaders, but we really need our ministers to be moral leaders as well. It is sad that there are so many pastors and preachers who are cowards. They are very nice cowards, but they are still cowards. They are more concerned with pleasing men, than with pleasing God. They have a duty to be salt and light in this world. All Christians, pastors and the people in the pew, are called to be salt and light in this world. Light exposes and salt purifies and cleanses. We are to be bearers of God's righteousness. It should be the pastors who lead their congregations when evil and false doctrine shows up in our communities.

I get calls from people who say their pastor will not take a stand and will never talk about these things. I believe that if your pastor will not take a stand on these things, you probably have the wrong pastor. You should probably find a church with a pastor who will take the right stand. You need a pastor who fears God enough to stand on the truth no matter what men may say.

Be informed. Purchase our special package on Understanding Islam for the special price of $15.00 plus shipping and handling. You can order it from our web store.

What should we do?

What should a person who wants to take a stand do? First, we must have truth, but just having the truth will not advance the cause.

More ministers are offended when we want to talk about the persecuted Christians than you can imagine. A woman said that there was an abortion issue coming up for a vote. She wanted to go to the 25 churches associated with her church and give a 5 minute challenge on the subject. Only one would let her speak. The churches were with her on the politics of the issue, but they didn't want to risk losing their tax exempt status. I say that the favorite Bible verse of this kind of pastor is 501C3.

When people read the Bible, they get from it what they take to it. When I read the Bible, I see Jesus as a bold man, a man that stood for what was right, no matter who opposed Him. He offended powerful people, and He would debate about religion. How many pastors do you know who could debate with a Muslim about the truth of Islam? The Muslim Brotherhood has said the broadest door for Islam into American culture is the door of the church.

The main reason people don't want to take a stand against Islam is they don't want to be called a bigot, a racist, or an islamophobe. We have become a timid people, courage is a rare commodity in America today.

The first thing you will have to do if you want to take a stand for truth is to be willing to have people insult you. If you look at the Scriptures, you will see that Jesus was insulted and condemned. We have to learn to take a little heat. If you are called names because you speak out about persecuted Christians in the world, let it be so. You are going the right thing.

Telling the truth is not an easy thing, people don't want to hear it. People have to be willing to tell the truth, if for no other reason, it is the Christian thing to do. I believe that it was Churchill who said, If people hate you, you must be doing something right.

We have to take a stand, even though it is not popular. Have Americans become cowards? I don't believe so. Political correctness has made it unacceptable to say anything that may offend others. The truth is, and always will be, offensive to many people.

I am glad that people were not tolerant during WWII. I am glad we had leaders who were not afraid to stand up against Hitler and Nazism. They would not tolerate the murder of Jews, Gipsy's, and the weak. There are some things we should not be tolerant of, and that we should take a stand against. If we are tolerant of those who are intolerant of us, it is over for us.

Dr. Warner is writing a book called Waging Ideological War. It is a compilation of 5 years of newsletters. One of the newsletters is called Muhammad, Deja Vue, All Over Again. It takes a book written about Churchill standing alone during the war years. The media refused to say anything bad about Hitler. College professors refused to say anything bad about the Nazis. There were pictures of the Jews being persecuted and driven out of their homes, but the media wouldn't publish them. No criticism of Hitler was allowed. If you read this book, and substitute Muhammad for Hitler, it is the same thing all over again.

I take some solace from this because we were wrong about Hitler in the beginning, but when we got it right, we got it really right. My hope is that we will start to judge Islam on its merits, not on the idea of multiculturalism. If all cultures were the same we would have about as many Americans moving to Mexico as we have Mexicans moving to America.

You don't have to have a great education to understand that all cultures are not the same. How can we have the "educated" elite saying that no culture is better than another? The only explanation is willful ignorance. Something may be wrong with me, but I just believe that is something is wrong and people are being hurt by it, we should speak out against it.

The name calling on the part of those who oppose us isn't very smart. It shows their ignorance and the fact that they don't have answers to what we are saying. If you can't defeat the ideas, attack the messenger.

Calling someone a racist because he stands up against Islam really show how little they know. Islam is not a race, nor is it limited to a race. Jesus Christ was a Jew, and if I follow Him, it doesn't make me a Jew. Only 15% of the Muslims in the world are Arabs. Not every Arab is a Muslim. Most of the Muslims in the world come from places like Indonesia, Pakistan, and India. They don't even speak Arabic. Just because Muhammad was an Arab, doesn't mean that all Muslims are Arabs.

I have said many times, it is not the people, the Muslims, who are the problem, it is the ideology of Islam. Muslims do what they do because of Islam. We have to separate the two. To win, we must divide and conquer. We have to divide the people from the faith. The faith is the ideology. We must also separate the Sharia from the religion. The Sharia is the legal and political system.

We are trying to get those who follow Fortress of Faith to be come activists. We want you to act, to do something for what we believe in. We need people who will stand up and be counted.

We must stand for truth, but we must also speak out against evil. The best place to confront evil is to speak up of persecuted Christians. It breaks my heart to see the persecuted Christians mostly ignored. The refugees we are bringing into America and Europe are Muslims, mostly of fighting age, and only a very small number of Christians are being allowed in.

Churches are doing a lot to help the Muslim refugees, but to get the money from the government, they must sign a document saying they will not try to convert them. Christians need to learn how to reach the Muslims in America, and must stand up for the persecuted Christians around the world. One of the jumbo jets bringing refugees to America only had one Christian, everyone else was a Muslim.

Churches need to stand up and say, if we are going to take in refugees, why and we have Christian refugees? They are, after all, the most persecuted people in the region refugees are coming from. Have you ever noticed that no one ever hollers "Jesus Akbar" while killing someone?

It is time that we as Christians fulfill the mandate given to us by our Lord. We are called to be the light of righteousness in this world and the healing salt. The Bible warns of times like these. The consequences are all around us. What are we going to do about it?
